TO EXPERIMENT IN SILK CULTURE

WASHINGTON April 10.—[Special.]—Senator Miller to-day offered and had referred to the senate committee on appropriations an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill which passed the house last week and is now in the hands of the committee providing that $20,000 shall be appropriated the year to enable the commissioner of agriculture to establish in California an experimental institution for instruction in silk culture and for providing stations to reel cocoons. It is understood this amendment was pressed at the instance of several senators who desire to encourage the manufacture of silk in California and that it is as good as inserted in the bill. There is every probability therefore that the appropriation will be made.

DOLPH'S BILL TO EXPLORE ALASKA.

NEW YORK April 10.—[Special.]—The Sun says "Senator Dolph of Oregon asks congress to appropriate $50,000 for a military exploration of Alaska. Only a few months ago one such exploration was made. Lieutenant Schwatka followed down the greater part of the course of the Yukon. While Naval Officer Lieutenant Stoney was simultaneously conducting quite as remarkable exploration of a newly discovered river in Alaska. The marine service occasionally adds contributions in the same direction, and altogether the routine of the services seems likely to furnish all that is required in this way without the intervention of congress.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory

Seattle people are petitioning against Sunday ball playing.

The new apparatus for protection against fire has arrived at Port Townsend and has been turned over to the town.

There is much land at Prescott to be summer fallowed and much to be cropped to corn. The grain is hardly as far advanced as in the vicinity of Walla Walla but it is mostly spring grain.

There will be a county convention held in Columbia hall in Olympia on April 26 for the purpose of electing four delegates to the territorial convention to be held at Dayton, Columbia county.

The editor of the Port Townsend Argus has recently made a visit to Dungeness, and while there he says we noticed that crops did not seem to be as forward as they sometimes are at this season of the year. The warm dry weather seems to be coming on rather too early in the spring.

Captain J. H. May says the Yakima Signal was engaged by the N. P. R. R. to circulate a petition against forfeiture of their land grant, and meeting a respectable citizen named B. Weser on the street after dark he set on him and beat him severely for which he paid $50 and costs the next day.

The Port Townsend board of trade has appointed a committee consisting of Hon. R. C. Hill and Captain H. L. Tibbals to canvass Island county to solicit aid for erecting a commodious and suitable wharf to deep water at Coupeville [illegible] on the east side of the channel that separates Whidby island from Port Townsend.

Small's new opera house at Walla Walla will be provided with 800 opera chairs folding and fitting and provided with umbrella racks. Office chairs to the number of 100 will be arranged back of these. The reception room will be elegantly fitted up with furniture and decoration. The scenery has been ordered in San Francisco.

At Walla Walla Tuesday afternoon Barney Kbardge a young man in the employ of O. Brechtel had his left hand caught in the double cylinder of the machine [illegible] with the result to entirely strip the flesh from the back of the fingers and the knuckles and to crush open the flesh of the fingers on the inner side.

Spokane Falls Review: [illegible] is becoming more apparent every day that the city is in a desperate condition without an organized fire department. So many frame buildings are being squeezed in together that the entire business part of the place is now at the mercy of a fire should one break out. The city cannot escape a visitation sooner or later and what it will be cannot be foretold.

Yesterday the Puget Sound Fire Insurance company filed articles of incorporation at Tacoma. The incorporators are Charles H. Butterfield, Wm. J. Rowland, Warren L. Baker, Wm. L. Fife, Thomas A. Wilson, L. F. Thompson, Benjamin Macready and James H. [illegible]. The capital stock is set at $100,000. The directors of the company are Messrs. Macready, Baker, Fife, Hodges and Wilson. The officers are President L. F. Thompson, vice president Wm. G. Rowland, secretary Charles H. Butterfield, treasurer Thomas A. Wilson.

Charles Blaine of Sprague met with a painful and well nigh fatal accident last week. On his way to Marshall and while descending the Leeds creek hill in a vehicle [illegible] from the front wheels of his wagon on which there was no brake his team either refused or was unable to hold back and starting into a run threw Mr. Blaine out and he was dragged for some distance under the horses' feet causing the fracture of his left jaw in three places and also injuring his chest and body bruising him otherwise. He was taken up about half a mile from Marshall in an insensible condition and was taken into town. It is thought that he may be able to weather it all but it was a narrow escape from death.

Western Oregon

Farmers in the vicinity of Amity, Yamhill county are about through seeding.

Major Charman is lying quite ill at his home in Oregon City with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. J. on Wilhoit Sr. of Soda Springs while riding a young horse was thrown and his ankle broken.

The Yamhill Reporter says: Judging from the abundance of wild strawberry blossoms that fruit will be plentiful this season.

On Canby prairie between 400 and 500 acres of potatoes are being planted this season. Fruit promises to be abundant and crops look first rate.

Farmers are settling on the Eagle Creek Burn in Clackamas county. Five land hunters two of them Germans, stopped at Wilbern's one night last week.

A McMinnville exchange says: We hear that Senator Jessup will probably resign. That will leave three republicans of Yamhill two senators to elect at the June election.

Fall wheat about McMinnville looks beautiful and thrifty while the spring crop begins to look up rapidly. Many a piece of ground whereon grew groves of fir and oak has been cleared off and plowed up during the past season and now fairly strikes in its cost of green that in the next harvest will yield heavily of the golden grain. From every part of the county comes the same report and it is probable that the crop of this year in Yamhill county will far exceed that of any season heretofore.

Last Monday the oldest son of Mr. Wm. Bowman of New Era, Clackamas county was engaged in felling some trees not far from the house. He was one down and then started for the house passing by the fallen tree and was horrified to see his young brother John aged 5 years lying under it crushed to death. The little fellow never spoke. The elder brother did not know that any of the children were anywhere in the vicinity and no blame can be attached to any one. He was cut and the mangled body extracted and taken to the house.

Southern Oregon

The Ashland Tidings says prospects are good thus far for a big fruit crop this year.

Charles Veight was handling a pistol in the saloon near the bridge last Monday at Ashland when the weapon was accidentally discharged. It was pointed toward the street and the bullet after passing through the lattice screen and the open door, went within an inch or two of General E. L. Applegate who was sitting on the hand rail of the sidewalk over the creek after which its further progress was arrested by the heavy timbers of the bridge. It was a narrow escape for the general.

A number of the prominent citizens of Jackson county have issued a call for a prohibition convention. The call concludes as follows: "It has come that the time has arrived when temperance men should organize for independent political action call upon all who are in favor of the organization in this county of a prohibition party to cooperation with the national prohibition party to meet in mass convention in the Methodist church in Ashland at 1 o'clock P. M. on Saturday April 12 1884 for the purpose of effecting such organization, the nomination of a county ticket and for the transaction of such other business as may be necessary."

IN GENERAL.

The London Lancet reports a decline on tea and coffee in which people are advised to put the coffee for breakfast in an earthenware vessel, pour cold water over it, let it stand over night and bring it to the boiling point by placing it in a bath or double boiler in the morning, thus preserving the aroma.

At a recent meeting of the Cuyahoga County Medical Society at Cleveland an interesting case in medical jurisprudence was reported. A doctor dressed a boy's injured elbow and gave his mother directions for after treatment. The mother neglected the directions and a deformed elbow was the result. The mother brought a suit for damages and notwithstanding the fact that the doctor could prove the mother's negligence he was advised by his lawyer to settle. The ground for this advice was that in Ohio a child of tender years injured by the fault of another is not deprived of a right of action by reason of contributory negligence on the part of its parent or guardian. The surgeon must not only give the necessary directions, but see personally that they are carried out.

The costly and impressive deliberation with which government buildings are apt to progress towards completion is brought to mind by the [illegible] of the St. Louis custom house and postoffice just opened to the public. The original appropriation for the building was in July 1870. Thus nearly fourteen years have been used to construct the edifice while the authorized cost $4,000,000 has been exceeded by 50 per cent. The waiting for appropriations has of course accounted for much of this delay, but the process of preparing structures for the convenience of the government is generally painfully slow and almost invariably extravagant when judged by the work and payment involved in contrast with private enterprise. St. Louis has been taught by an object lesson in all these years that a government building is never built precipitately.

No Monument for Stephens

ATLANTA Ga. April 10.—[Special.]—The project for a monument to Alexander H. Stephens has been abandoned. Only $432 having been raised after months of strenuous effort. For the last forty years of his life Mr. Stephens never had less than ten beneficiaries receiving education for which he furnished all the means. These men have gone out into the world, entered into trade and the law, and many of them have amassed fortunes while all are well to do. The body of the late governor, which yet reposes in Atlanta will be removed to Crawfordsville in a few weeks where it will be placed beside that of his mother whom he never saw.

The Standard Oil Inquiry

PHILADELPHIA April 10.—Franklin B. Gowen closed his argument in the Standard Oil legislative inquiry. He said ten to twelve years ago twenty million barrels of oil were produced in this commonwealth which netted the railroads $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 and these receipts were then taxed by the state. Now the oil was carried off in pipes and the commonwealth has lost a large revenue from this source. It was unfair to tax other corporations and except this one and the laws should be changed so the oil could be taxed.

A DOUBLE MURDER.

An Aged Illinois Couple Beaten to Death by A Hired Hand

CHICAGO April 10.—The Daily News' Mattoon Ill. special gives the following additional details of the double murder of the old Fleetwood couple near Rankin. The old folks slept on the first floor, a married daughter, a small child and a hired man James Winkleback slept up stairs. All retired early. The daughter was awakened later by hearing Winkleback going down stairs but dozed off and was again wakened by hearing a sound as of blows being struck in the room below but went to sleep again and again was roused by a smell of fire. She called to the hired man that the house was on fire and he told her to jump out of the window. She ran down stairs and found the bed in which her father and mother lay on fire. Winkleback at her request went reluctantly to the house of a neighbor. She extinguished the flames and found the aged couple with their throats cut and heads beaten in. Winkleback was suspected. He had blood on his trousers and wore a clean shirt though he had on a soiled one when he retired at night. The well was pumped dry and his ex[illegible] covered with blood and hair was found at the bottom. Winkleback stoutly asserted his innocence. The coroner's jury held him for murder. The sheriff started with him for the jail at Charleston and a crowd of 300 who had rallied at the scene threatened to lynch him before he reached it. The old couple had no money in the house and the reasons for the crime are unknown.

THE MURDERER IN JAIL.

CHARLESTON Ill. April 10.—The sheriff succeeded in getting Winkleback the supposed murderer of the Fleetwood couple away from the crowd at the scene of the tragedy and landing him safely in jail here. A revolver which Winkleback acknowledges is his was found with two chambers empty. It is believed he shot Mrs. Fleetwood with it before crushing her head with the ax.

DETROIT April 10.—The second wrestling match came off to-night in this city between Ross of Cleveland and McLaughlin of this city. There was a big attendance. The match was for $1000 a side the receipts of the house and the wrestling championship. There were two falls collar and elbow, two side-hold and one catch as catch can in jackets. The first bout collar and elbow lasted seven minutes and was won by McLaughlin. The second side hold four minutes, by Ross. The third collar and elbow two minutes by McLaughlin. The fourth side-hold one minute by Ross. The fifth, catch-as-catch-can, eight minutes by McLaughlin. At the conclusion of the match McLaughlin challenged the Japanese Matsada Sorakichi who had come with the Cleveland party but as the Japanese insists on wrestling without jackets nothing came of the challenge. McLaughlin insists on jackets.

POLITICAL.

TILDEN AND THE PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON April 10.—[Special.]—In a private letter received by a gentleman of this city from a prominent southern democrat who expects to be a delegate from his state to the national democratic convention the writer says that the other day he had an hour's confidential talk with ex-Governor Tilden. He called upon Tilden to urge him to consent to his nomination for the presidency and assured him of the cordial and almost unanimous support of the convention from the south. The writer of the letter gives it as his honest conviction based upon the conversation referred to that Tilden will not accept the nomination under any circumstances.

A democratic senator who recently visited Tilden in New York said to-day: I am surely and candidly that Mr. Tilden's health is as good as it was years ago. He has never suffered any general attack of paralysis. His left arm is partially paralyzed and some of the organs of the throat also. The latter affects his voice but Tilden's general health is good. The senator believes that Tilden will be nominated and that at the proper time he will assent to his nomination.

The state convention to select four delegates at large will be held in this city on the 17th.

SOMETHING ABOUT TROUT CREEK MONTANA

TROUT CREEK M. T. April 4.

This place 358 miles east of Portland, on the line of the Northern Pacific railroad is another point that claims the best route to the Coeur d'Alene mines. It is situated in the Clark's Fork canyon amongst thick pine timber on the south bank of the Clark's Fork river. Five stores are doing business here, and restaurants, lodging houses and saloons in proportion. This is undoubtedly the shortest trail being but twenty seven miles from the railroad to Eagle City but the divide that has to be crossed is higher than the Thompson Falls trail. The trail owners Tone & Hamilton are grading the trail where it runs along the mountain side making it on higher ground where it is now in the creek bed and changing it at various places so as to shorten the route. Mr. Tone informs me that the distance of the trail can be reduced to twenty five miles and it is intended to make the trail as good as the rugged mountains will permit.

Messrs. Johnson, Clark and Taylor all experienced miners have been working on a quartz lead eight miles northeast of here on the opposite side of the Clark's Fork river for the last fourteen months. The ledge is twelve feet wide and can be traced up the side of a steep mountain for over a thousand feet. It apparently extends clean through the mountain. The rock is free milling containing no base metal. The lowest assay yet taken is $5 gold, the highest $25.16 gold and $3.64 silver. Last summer the owners sunk a shaft twenty four feet on the lead at a point a thousand feet up the mountain side. They are now at work stripping the lead from the shaft down the mountain. They have about 600 feet stripped and intend to uncover 1000 feet, then tunnel the lead at the foot of the mountain. Just below the intended mouth of the tunnel is a large spring of water and a good place for a mill site. Ten thousand dollars has been offered for this mine but the owners value it at $100,000. It is called the Hardfoot mine.

The mountains north of here are very broken and steep so are very hard to prospect. Mr. J. Ph. H. Johnson tells me that he has always found better prospects of quartz and mineral ores in these mountains than he did in the Coeur d'Alene district. He has prospected in both for several years.

About thirty five miles north of here there is a large seeming bottomless pit or sunken crater. Old miners call it a blow hole. It was discovered by George Miller one of the first prospectors in these mountains in 1881. The mountains surrounding the spot are exceedingly broken and steep. A rock thrown in of this big hole can be heard banging and rumbling as it whirls down until the noise dies away in the depths. Miller prospected the district but slightly on account of his provisions running short but he reported that in the country were numerous quartz ledges. He intends to return and return to the place. It was then a long distance to civilization from this place and after his return to his friends and the ways of the world there is many things to deter one and cause them to change their mind so Mr. Miller never revisited the blow hole country. Johnson and a few other men intend taking a trip there this summer.

NOTES FROM CORVALLIS.

CORVALLIS, April 10

Hotels are crowded with strangers.

Miss Lizzie Chenoweth is residing in Portland.

Indian Agent Wadsworth of Siletz is in your city.

The democrats of Benton assemble in county convention at Corvallis next Saturday.

W. H. G. Jason had one foot severely injured by his horse falling with him while driving sheep last week.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. have commenced the erection of a two story frame building on Main street to be used as a reading room.

The prospects for a good crop are said to be excellent. Fall sown grain is growing finely and the present weather is very propitious for spring sowing.

Colonel Hogg president, Colonel Davis, treasurer, Wallis Nash vice president, William M. Hoag general manager and I. S. P. Weeks division engineer of the Oregon Pacific railroad, are at Yaquina bay.

Rumor says that a company has recently been formed here that will during the coming summer erect a fine hotel far superior in all appointments to anything of the kind now in the town. It is to be located on the lots made vacant last summer by the burning of Sol King's livery stables.

THE OREGON PACIFIC

Work on the Oregon Pacific appears to be progressing very favorably. The company display great activity and evidently expect to have the line extended to Corvallis early this season. Tunnels 2 and 3 have been perforated and will be completed before the end of the current month. In the remaining tunnel No. 1 there is between 350 and 300 feet of tunneling yet to be done but a full force is kept at work in both ends night and day and it will be completed and ready for the track double as by the time it is reached by the graders from the Yaquina side. Track laying is not being pushed as much now as it will be in a short time owing to the want of iron cars the wheels for which are now being cast in this city and will be ready for use at the front within the next week. The steamer Minnie brought from San Francisco rails for over 8 miles of track, and the Nepa now discharging brought a still larger quantity. Plans and specifications have been completed for a round house and repair shop at Yaquina City. About 300 white and 1200 Chinese laborers are on the pay roll. Every available laborer in the county fit for moving a shovel or cart that could possibly be secured has been engaged by the company and sent to the front. There is need of more. The company advertise for expert hod while labor's scarce. The tree is work is being pushed with all possible dispatch.

A Chicago business man says lawyers are in a majority in our legislature, and they naturally reflect the sentiments of their brethren of the bar. They look mostly to the law's delays and the public pays the bills, not only in money, but in the blood of innocent citizens. Our judges of course have all been lawyers. The majority of lawmakers are lawyers. Those who prosecute and defend criminals are lawyers. Hence whether they will or not, the bar must bear the responsibility of the blood shed and the property destroyed when an outraged people attempt to take the law into their own hands.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC AND ITS COAL LANDS

A Warm Fight between that Company and the Oregon Improvement Company Threatened—News from the North—Notes

CALIFORNIA

The Northern Pacific Land Grant

SAN FRANCISCO April 10.—[Special.]—The Chronicle this morning says: Delegate Brents of Washington territory has introduced a substitute for the house public land committee's bill declaring the unearned part of the Northern Pacific land grant forfeited. The substitute contains a provision that the company shall not sell its land in larger quantities than 160 acres to each purchaser and not at a higher price than $2.50 per acre, and that purchasers must be citizens of the United States. This is good but it comes too late by many years. No doubt the intent of the grants to the Union and the Central Pacific was that the land granted should be sold in small tracts at a low price but the grantor relied on the assumption that the grantees would find it to the interest of the business of the roads to dispose of their land to actual settlers but they found it more to the interest of the directors to sell it in a lump in this state to their own agents. All subsequent grants were wanting in this essential feature which Mr. Brents' substitute proposes at this late day. Whether his bill passes or not congress would do a wise and politic thing to adopt this feature of it and apply it as an amendment to every land grant made in which the grantor reserved the right to alter or amend or abrogate the grant as was the case with the acts of 1862 and 1864.

The Sharon Divorce Case

SAN FRANCISCO April 10.—The Sharon divorce proceedings were again enlivened this morning by the refusal of Mr. Tyler counsel for Miss Hill to allow himself to be searched to see if he carried a revolver. Tyler said: I ask that Mr. Barnes be searched as well as myself.

General Barnes—I have been searched like all other persons.

Tyler insisted all the other gentlemen were allowed to enter the court room upon their personal assurance that they had no arms in their possession.

Judge Tyler said that he did not mind that there had been a great difference between tweedledum and tweedledee all through the case.

Judge Sullivan then turned from the bench and walked out of the court room remarking: I will not sit on the bench and try this case until I am assured that no person in this court room has arms in his possession.

After the exit of the judge a general exit of counsel took place to Judge Sullivan's chambers and in a few minutes afterward his honor returned and took his seat on the bench. Argument over the admissibility of questions put to witness Miss Shawhan by counsel for plaintiff was then continued.

The law was continued to arguments between counsel. No testimony was taken. Court adjourned to Monday next.

Crocker on the Barry Bill

SAN FRANCISCO April 10.—Charles Crocker, president of the Southern Pacific, in an interview with a Chronicle reporter on the merits of the Barry bill now before the legislature at Sacramento said: My opinion is that the Barry bill will work more injury to the shippers than it will to the railroads, although it will be very annoying to railroad companies to carry out all its provisions. Under it speculators and large operators will have great advantages over small shippers. The bill would prevent us from making in times of heavy traffic an equitable distribution of our rolling stock whereby a [illegible] could be partially accommodated and would compel us to serve the first comer at a sacrifice of the interests of all other shippers. Speculators might monopolize all transportation and small shippers have to purchase from them the privilege of shipping.

Later on he stated that from continued agitation on this coast over the railroads his company had found it impossible to raise the requisite funds for the completion of the California and Oregon railroad and that he had ordered all work on it stopped after the forty mile stake beyond Redding had been reached. He says eastern capitalists do not understand why after investing their money in railroads, the roads should cease to be theirs and become the property of the state.

Buckley's Proclamation

[Special.]—A correspondent writing from Sacramento says: Chris Buckley's proclamation has acted like a bombshell among the San Francisco senators. They may be seen to-day meeting in a furtive way in out-of-the-way places like cats who know the sheriff was waiting outside their door. To annul the warning comes like a [illegible]. They have made the [illegible], and the whole or a part of the thirty pieces of silver may be heard [illegible] jingle in their pockets. With others the case is different. They had not drawn [illegible] their bargains or they were [illegible] higher terms, [illegible] while the [illegible] away from under their feet and [illegible] awful vision of an invitation to leave the state [illegible] up [illegible] their [illegible]. Late this afternoon word [illegible] from them that they did not give a blank for Buckley that they were going to vote according to their consciences. Their consciences! [illegible]

Knights Templar

The grand commandery of Knights Templar of California met in annual session at Masonic temple this afternoon ex-Governor George C. Perkins grand commander presiding. The proceedings opened with an address from the grand commander in which he reviewed the transactions of the great triennial conclave of last year. The session will probably last two days. Besides the annual routine business to be transacted the question will be discussed as to the action to be taken in reference to bodies which it is alleged are conferring Scottish rite degrees unlawfully.

Absolute Proofs

[Special.]—To-morrow the Chronicle will print proofs absolute of the charges brought a few days ago against Deputy Assessor Merrill and J. H. Dickenson in connection with the assessment of Chinese firms. Merrill has virtually been suspended from office and an official investigation will follow. Dickenson is colonel of the Seventh regiment and an ex-state senator. He has been in Oregon where he is well known.

The Rain Ceases

[Special.]—The rain storm ceased this afternoon. The average fall throughout the state has been nearly six feet and a half in two days. Extensive washouts are reported on the line of the Southern Pacific and traffic is again suspended.

The Southern Pacific Washed Out.

MOJAVE April 10.—It has rained here incessantly the last twenty four hours and the railroad track is again seriously damaged. The engine and construction train which left here last evening with a crew of men ran into a washout about four miles east of Lancaster and the whole outfit was turned into the gully. No one was badly hurt. Six miles south of Lang's engine 48 ran into a washout and fell over on its side leaving the tender on rail. The track at Caliente was covered with dirt to an average depth of twelve inches for more than a mile.

Another Flood at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES April 10.—A perfect deluge of rain has fallen during the last thirty six hours. Three inches last night. Trains both east and west are blocked by washouts.

A HOT FIGHT THREATENED

Trouble Pending between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon Improvement Company

SAN FRANCISCO April 11.—[Special.]—It has leaked out here that at the last meeting of the Northern Pacific board of directors held March 20 a resolution was passed that the company would decline to sell their coal lands which are unearned in Washington territory upon the ground that it would be more profitable to lease them upon royalties.

This is the commencement of what promises to be an interesting and hot fight between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon Improvement Company. Under the former management the Northern Pacific agreed to sell to the Oregon Improvement Company at current prices certain lands in the neighborhood of Seattle which were to be prospected for coal. These lands are now in possession of the Oregon Improvement Company who have spent large sums in developing the coal lands. The discovery and development of such coal lands were encouraged by the Northern Pacific which now attempts to repudiate its agreement.

It is understood that the resolution was animated by C. B. Wright of Philadelphia who succeeded Villard as director and is opposed to anything which will benefit Seattle. The Improvement Company people regard it as very undiplomatic on the part of the Northern Pacific to take with the Improvement Company the very action that they are trying to prevent congress taking towards themselves—that is to fly in the face of a written agreement. Having possession the Improvement Company will insist on holding the lands under the agreement and in case forfeiture is declared the lands will be bought from the government at the market price. There is an element of bad influence in the aspect of the Northern Pacific, assuming to dictate the disposition of lands which they do not own.

EUREKA April 10.—A torrent of rain fell here last night. Travel in the southeastern part of the state is now almost impossible on account of deep snow and washouts. A dispatch states that the stage going to Pioche was five days making the twenty five miles between Willow Creek and Parker's station. Men on foot had to drag the mail and express seven miles on rawhides.

THE UMATILLA WRECK.

Finding of the Local Inspectors at Seattle—No One Blamed

SEATTLE, April 10.—[Special.]—Captain Frank Worth was exonerated from blame to-day for the loss of the Umatilla. Following is the full text of the findings in the Umatilla case made by the local inspectors yesterday: After a careful revision of all the evidence in the case we can arrive at but one conclusion namely that the steamship Umatilla was thrown out of her course by a strong current setting to the north and eastward. According to the courses steered had the ship made that course she should have gone at least ten or twelve miles to the westward of Flattery reef. It is well known to experienced navigators that it is of frequent occurrence in the winter months that there is a strong set to the current northward extending from below the Columbia river. This set increases in velocity as it nears the straits of Juan de Fuca, where everything drifting north by its flow is drawn in. This has been often verified by wreckage brought from the vicinity of Gray's harbor, Shoalwater bay and the Columbia river. At the time of the accident to the Queen of the Pacific on the Columbia river bar freight thrown over to lighten the ship was in a short time thereafter picked up off Cape Flattery by the Indians, also at the time of the loss of the steamship Pacific in 1875 thirty miles south west of the cape. The wreckage from where she sank was drifted 100 miles into and up the straits inside of seventy hours, wreckage from her finding its way even as far north as the north end of the Gulf of Georgia the last survivor being picked up nearly off Race rocks, and some of the remains of persons lost at that time being picked up on San Juan island. With these local causes together with the fact that there was a blinding snow storm prevailing at the time, we consider it a case where the most skillful navigator might have made the same mistake.

"In view of the above facts we do find that Captain Frank Worth is exonerated from material blame for the loss of the steamer Umatilla on the morning of February 9 1884.

We would fail in our duty to bravery and daring did we fail to congratulate Chief Officer John A. O'Brien (after being almost providentially left by the ship) for the manner in which he brought her to port thereby saving valuable property. It is to be hoped that his services will be rewarded.

DEATH OF GENERAL DIETZLER

He is Thrown from a Buggy near Tucson, Receiving Fatal Injuries.

TUCSON April 10.—General George W. Deitzler was thrown from a buggy this afternoon and killed. He with Professor Unthank had been to look at some springs of water near Fort Lowell and was returning home when one of the singletrees came loose. General Dietzler who was driving endeavored to stop the team but one of the horses commenced kicking viciously and before they could be quieted the neckyoke slipped off the pole and the team started on a run, overturning the buggy and breaking loose from it. Unthank states that when he returned to consciousness he found himself under the buggy with one of the wheels on his head. He crawled out and found General Dietzler lying in the road about thirty feet in the rear, and going to him spoke to him but received no answer save a groan. The body was brought to town and will be embalmed.

THE GENERAL'S WAR RECORD

General Deitzler was a member of the famous Stubbs company during the free state war in Kansas and was the man that went to Boston and procured 100 Sharps rifles to arm free soil men among whom he took an active part. At the breaking out of the rebellion he raised the first regiment of Kansas volunteers. At the battle of Wilson creek he was severely wounded. He succeeded on the death of Lyons to the command of the Union forces, pending the arrival of Sturgess. He commanded the first brigade before Vicksburg. He was here making arrangements to reside permanently and at the time of his death was looking for water, with a view of bringing a large tract of land under cultivation. His family, wife and two daughters reside in San Francisco. The body will be sent home.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

Spokane Falls and the Coeur d'Alene.

SPOKANE FALLS April 10.—[Special.]—The ice has entirely disappeared from the lake and steamers are now running up the river within twenty miles of Eagle City. Saddle horses are to be put on to convey passengers to the mines. Stages carrying passengers and freight leave Spokane Falls daily to connect at Coeur d'Alene with steamer. Travel by that route is the most comfortable and expeditious. Travel to the mines is very heavy and is increasing constantly. In a short time the bulk of the travel will probably go in by this route. The amount of money to insure a railroad from this city to Coeur d'Alene has been subscribed and parties will be here from the east at an early day to locate the line. Fully fifty houses are now under way in the city but they cannot be built fast enough to meet the demand. A stage line commenced running yesterday between Spokane Falls and Okanagan the center of the Big Bend country.

A Social Sensation.

New York Cor. Philadelphia Press

There is just now much coolness between two prominent New York families growing out of so innocent a cause as the christening of a baby. On December 27, 1882 Oliver H. P. Belmont son of August Belmont was married to Sara Swan Whiting a daughter of Mrs. Augustus Whiting who lives at Swansea, a beautiful villa on Bellevue avenue, Newport. There was a grand wedding, Perry Belmont being the best man, and Bishop Clark performing the ceremony. The presents were valued at $100,000, August Belmont's giving a large check, and both families bestowing diamonds and silver in abundance. After a bridal trip through Europe it began to be whispered that a separation was imminent. This was given credence by the fact that the bride and groom returned by different steamers. It is now understood that Mrs. Belmont has taken steps to secure a divorce. She and her mother recently sailed again for Europe while her husband is said to be staying at his father's city and country houses, alternately. The families of the bride and groom were estranged by the quarrel but some innocent outsiders got mixed in the unpleasantness because of the recent christening of young Mrs. Belmont's child. At the ceremony Mrs. Astor, daughter of William Astor and Mrs. Fernando Yznaga stood as godmothers. When the Belmonts heard that it angered them toward the Astors, and it is currently reported that August Belmont cut Mrs. Astor dead at dinner where they happened to meet, making matters very unpleasant for the hostess. Anyway the families do not speak or notice each other. Sympathy is generally on the side of the Astors who are better liked than the Belmonts. August Belmont's irascible disposition is well known and in this case it has done him harm, for he had nothing to gain and everything to lose, in cutting the Astors. The trouble has not stopped here. Mrs. Yznaga is a sister of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the latter lady and her family have also incurred the displeasure of the Belmonts.

Secretary Chandler apparently takes the criticisms that are heaped upon his head with more than ordinary philosophy. The other day the New York Times had an editorial headed "A Man in the Way," in which the president was notified that a most serious obstacle to the way of organizing a new navy was the presence of Chandler at the head of the department. One of those kind friends who never fail to see that articles of this sort reach the object attacked, called upon Secretary Chandler the other morning and asked him if he had seen the editorial in question.

"Yes," said Chandler very dryly, "I have seen it. You know those sort of articles are always shown to their victims."

"What is the matter with George Jones?" asked the visitor. "What is his object?"

"I do not know," said Chandler, "unless he has become thoroughly convinced that there is stealing going on in this department and he is not in it."

THE NEW SPEAKER'S WEAKNESS

LONDON April 10.—[Special.]—The general opinion is that the new speaker Robert Peale lacks nerve because he failed to suspend Healy who recently made an improper speech. It is generally understood that Peel was fully determined to repress all manifestations of Irish rowdyism on the floor of the house but men are beginning to revise their opinion of his firmness and to lament the absence of the late Speaker Brand. Condition of Chas. Reade fluctuates between apparent improvement and alarming relapse. Doctors nonplused.

WHY THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS ARE GUARDED

OTTAWA April 10.—The reason why additional guards have been placed in the parliament buildings has at length transpired. A few weeks since a man from Chicago styling himself Dr. Coose wrote Sir John MacDonald telling him that he knew of a plot maturing in the United States to blow up the parliament buildings with dynamite. Sir John MacDonald gave him permission to go ahead with his intrigue and refused to give him any remuneration until he proved the truth of his story and he arrested the parties he promised. Dr. Coose since his arrival has been staying at the principal hotels and has not yet provided with money. The authorities have closely shadowed him but have discovered nothing suspicious in his behavior.

ARTS OF PROLONGING LIFE.

The director of the bureau of statistics at Vienna has made some interesting researches concerning the comparative longevity of women and men in Europe. He finds that out of 102,831 individuals who have passed the age of 90 years, 60,303 are women and only 42,528 are men. In Italy "245 alleged centenarian women are found for 141 men of that age." To this is added: "From these facts and the patent fact that women, as a rule, lead much more temperate and regular lives than men, some wholesome hints may be gathered."

The wholesome hints doubtless are that temperate and decent lives are the longest, and that those who wish to prolong their lives should therefore be temperate in their habits of work and play, of eating and drinking. This is a wholesome rule to observe in any case, and it will bring a sufficient reward even if it fails to prolong life. Most people are familiar with the general laws of health, but even physicians, whose business it is to study the causes and cure of diseases, are hardly freer from the various ills that flesh is heir to, or from those habits of life which are by common consent regarded as prejudicial to health, than men of other vocations. "The wholesome hints" intended in the above paragraph are of the sort which are often made in skillful hands to do yeoman service in the cause of sophistry and error. It should be remembered that examples are not necessarily arguments. We have in mind now a man who has reached the age of nearly 100 years, and is still in good health, though of course infirm, who has violated for the greater part of his life nearly every hygienic rule, has used tobacco and rum, and eaten fat pork, and exposed himself to all the changes of a severe climate with entire recklessness. It may be said of him that he had to start with one of those iron constitutions that seem capable of resisting all the attacks of "the knawing tooth of time," as well as the effects of dissipation and fatigue. But we so often observe the premature death of the children who are most carefully tended, and of the adults who are most temperate according to the conventional standard, that we are inclined to think that the art of prolonging life was never meant to be an exact science, but that it is one of those mysteries which belong to the author and giver of life.

A few years ago two remarkable cases of longevity were chronicled which exhibit in a very striking manner this anomaly in human life. Count Waldeck died in Paris at the very great age of 110 years, and about the same time Father Nicephoros died in the convent of Zitka, on Mt. Athos, at the almost unprecedented age, in modern times, of 117 years. Both of these men had been more or less famous—the former for his deeds in arms, arts and letters, the latter for having been commemorated in Childe Harold as the generous host of Lord Byron when he visited the mountain monastery in his southern wanderings. Count Waldeck's life was an irregular, turbulent and eventful one. It was, for upwards of eighty years, the life of an adventurer. Beginning his career as the page of Marie Antoinette he was, successively, a soldier of the republic and empire, prisoner of cannibals, ranger of virgin forests, explorer of American ruins, three times shipwrecked, left for dead in a duel, and smitten by fevers of all colors, "white, yellow, green and blue." A man of the world and society, he conformed to the ways of each; an indefatigable worker he never spared himself, but made nothing of laboring at an art, he invented in his old age, twelve hours a day. Father Nicephoros, on the other hand, was a monk whose life had been peaceful and passionless from first to last. He had breathed for the most part only the pure air of Mt. Athos, "had kept regular hours, lived chiefly on herbs, fruit and fish and a pleasant white wine not trodden out with the foot, but pressed from the grape by hand." Free from all the cares that vex and worry, he had led a life of almost Arcadian simplicity. It does not appear that either of these men made any special effort to live long, and we do not think that any special lesson, either to fortify or weaken any hygienic maxim, can be drawn from the example of either, for the longevity of both must be regarded as phenomenal. As examples they may be fairly paired off and ruled out. At the same time we cannot but notice, with some satisfaction, that it was the man of most temperate and regular life who lived the longer. He had nearly reached the age of that old prophet who, after leading a life of as much turbulence, exposure and adventure as the warlike count, and of as much temperance as the good priest, had also died on a mountain at the age of 120, at which time it is recorded of him that "his eye was not dim nor his natural force abated."

The communication from Judge Denny explains very fully the circumstances which led to his resignation. It seems that Mr. Seward, while in that office, had erected buildings for the use of the consulate with the express understanding with the state department that the government would assume no responsibility for the enterprise and that his successor would have full liberty to make his own arrangements for rent and to occupy Mr. Seward's buildings or not, as he pleased. Judge Denny declined to occupy them for the rent demanded, and then the state department interfered to assist Mr. Seward to a good tenant at a profitable lease. This was more than Judge Denny could submit to with dignity, and so he resigned. It is very small business for the secretary of state to be acting as real estate agent for Mr. Seward. It is not "brilliant;" neither is it dignified, nor creditable to the government.

Human nature is so constituted that a sensation, no matter how great, soon ceases to attract attention, and, in a few weeks makes way for something else. The probability is that the Cincinnati riots will be a nine days' wonder, and that by the time the Chicago convention meets, if not sooner, they will have dropped entirely out of the public discussions, and the plain lesson they ought to teach will be forgotten. It is greatly to be hoped that in the present case, at least, this will not be permitted until certain reforms are inaugurated which will render such disasters less liable to occur in the future. Those riots interest not Cincinnati people alone. They affect the state and the whole country. Other cities have found themselves in the hands of mobs, and may do so again. They may learn something of value from the Cincinnati disturbance which will be of great advantage to themselves.

It has been again decided, this time by the New York court of appeals, that drunkenness is no excuse for crime. It was contended that the prisoner, who had committed murder, was "the victim of an appetite for drink, entirely overcoming his will and amounting to a disease." The court of appeals overruled this objection and laid down the law as follows: "The rule is well settled that voluntary intoxication of one who without provocation commits a homicide, although amounting to a frenzy, does not exempt him from the same construction of his conduct and the same legal inferences upon the question of intent, as affecting the grade of his crime, which are applicable to a person entirely sober."

The bill lately passed by the Maryland legislature, reducing the price of marriage licenses from $4.50 to 60 cents each, has been vetoed by the governor. The state, he says, cannot afford to lose the revenue thus derived unless an equivalent resource is provided in some other way.

The Blaine Sargent ticket now reads: For president, James G. Blaine; for vice president, Aaron A. Sargent of California; for secretary of state, Thomas P. Ochiltree of Texas. Platform —A vigorous foreign policy.

The foregoing is an extract from the last issue of the San Francisco Spirit of the Times, and gives a good proof of the gullibility of the California people. It also is a good showing of their extravagance in matters that can do them no possible good, and their parsimony in matters that are likely to help them. It is a well known fact that the conclave of the Knights Templar in August last caused about a million of dollars to be spent in San Francisco which otherwise would not have been spent there; and it is equally well known that not over $20,000 of that amount was charged to expenses. The city reaped a great profit from it, both directly and indirectly. Yet up to within sixty days of the time set for the conclave the whole thing was in doubt. The editor of the paper above quoted, Marcus D. Boruck, did more than any other twenty men in that state towards getting up the conclave, and to-day he probably has less to show for it.

The same energetic and enthusiastic man is now the advocate of a world's fair to be held at San Francisco, which would be a great thing for Oregon as well as California; which would show the undeveloped wealth of both states to capitalists from the east who would never visit this coast except under the pressure of some occasion like a world's fair, and which would bring back five dollars for every one expended in the exhibition. And yet half the press claim that such a proposition is premature and that there is no money in it. The fair may be premature in the year following the conclave of knights, but it will not be premature in 1886 and it will take two years to get the building in shape. If congress could afford to appropriate seven million of dollars for the purchase of Alaska to enable three or four Washington lobbyists to make colossal fortunes out of the seal trade, it certainly can afford a million in aid of an exhibition to show up the productive capacity of the coast. The San Francisco custom house alone has paid ten times the amount asked, and it would be but asking our just due for the Pacific delegation to stand solid in favor of an appropriation for the World's Fair at San Francisco. Oregon will not quarrel with California on a proposition of so much merit. The fair should be held at San Francisco, and Oregon will get her full share of the benefit.

At the same time is it not disgraceful that San Francisco can give $15,000 to Muldoon and Bibby and $13,675 to Sullivan and Robinson, and not a cent to an industrial exhibition that would draw a hundred thousand people to the city; and that it should willingly give $175,000 to hear a cast-off European prima donna sing, whose failing voice is the sole cause of her inability to sing in European cities and her consequent visit to the Pacific coast. Truly, the people of California are liberal where it does no good and stingy in matters where they might be enriched both in cash and reputation.

Mr. Robeson does not like the Arthur administration and will do what he can to discontinue it. A correspondent asked him the other day if he was satisfied with the present executive. "No, sir," said Robeson, "this is nothing but a tailor's administration, and tailors and barbers may want it continued, but I don't." The Washington correspondent of the Chicago News explains this by saying: "Robeson wanted two things of Arthur that he did not get, one of them being the appointment of a postmaster in the town in New Jersey where Senator Sewell resided. It has been the practice for time immemorial to allow a senator to select the postmaster in his own town, but Robeson thought he would change this tradition and simply got left. He was mad and will remain mad."

Representative Hill, from the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic, has submitted an adverse majority report on a bill to establish an alcoholic liquor commission. The report says it is exceedingly doubtful whether congress has jurisdiction over the subject. As the internal revenue laws regulate the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, the only wholesale legislation congress could further provide would be to prevent interstate traffic in adulterated liquors. This is the correct position. The regulation of the liquor traffic is a public question which belongs to the states, and which the general government cannot beneficially control, even if it had the constitutional right to undertake it.

The committee investigating Keifer's charges against General Boynton has made a report which is short, sharp and to the point. It simply says that the charges are not sustained, and that there is no ground upon which the house can take any action against the correspondent. In order to reach this conclusion it must be inferred that the committee simply put down Keifer and his witnesses as guilty of perjury.

The late municipal election in Chicago has added so much more than ever before to the strength of the control which the disreputable elements have obtained over the city government that the Chicago Tribune finds itself compelled to distinctly admit that "the municipal administration is now sunk in a slough of corruption and vice, such as it has never before wallowed in."

The overwhelming defeat of Mayor Ames for re-election in Minneapolis was not due, the St. Paul Globe says, "to a desire for political, moral, or municipal reform. If there is any city that does not care for moral reform it is Minneapolis. The real reason was because Mayor Ames accepted the invitation of St. Paul to attend the Northern Pacific celebration last September."

The advocates of fashion in New York have decreed that it shall not be "the thing" in so marked a degree this year as in previous years to travel in Europe. It is predicted that the rush of fashionables to Europe will show a material falling off. Then those who go for the pure pleasure and profit of travel will have all the more comfortable time.

The Atlanta, Ga., Constitution says: "Mr. Tilden is the only hope now." The Constitution finds itself in the condition of a drowning man who clutches at a bit of straw.

The republican party is notified by ex Governor St. John, of Kansas, that if it does not put a prohibition plank in its platform it will lose a million votes.

PERSONAL.

Representative Long of Massachusetts, in one of the best speeches against the whisky bill made in congress, said: "I hear it said that the whisky interest has paid $1,000,000,000 into the public treasury; that it has supported our armies; that it has paid our debts; that it has maintained our government; but, sir, it has not paid one cent. Whisky has never paid a dollar. It the people it is who out of the earnings of their toil have paid millions for it and its curses. If a thousand million dollars has gone into the public treasury whisky has been only the rotten bridge over which it has passed."

The following is an account of the way a distinguished lawyer appears when he pitches in to do a day's work: Ex-Senator Conkling arrived, and throwing his beaver overcoat carelessly upon a chair, caught up the sealed, decorated envelope which had contained the will. He then stepped to the railing and squared himself for work. He wore a dark gray Prince Albert suit. A crimson silk handkerchief showed its corners from the breast pocket and a little ribbon remnant of the same tint was fastened to the lapel of the coat. Eyeing the witness as if about to annihilate him, he began.

In a recent number of the Reno Gazette we read: "By special request the Rev. George W. James will recite Southey's celebrated 'Cataract of Lodore' at the Methodist church. This is said to be the most difficult poem in the English language to memorize, but Mr. James will recite it backward and forward, give any line asked for, or give the number of any line that is read. Copies of the poem will be distributed throughout the audience, so that all may thoroughly test the lecturer's memory power. Mr. James assures us that he has not given more than an hour and a half to the mastery of this poem."

A Gentleman from Orwell, Pa., was so earnest in asserting that Ely's Cream Balm had cured him of Catarrh, that I purchased a stock. The Balm has already effected a number of cures here.—P. F. Hyatt, M. D., Bordentown, N. J.

AFTER THE "RIOT."

A Very Remarkable Article from a Leading Journal of Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The time has come for taking an account for salvage for three days' destruction and terror. First, we have saved our jailful of murderers. We have killed forty-five innocent men and wounded and maimed 145 more, all to save our jailful of murderers. We have burned our fine courthouse, with records of three-quarters of a century, creating confusion which a whole generation will not suffice to settle. But what is that by the side of a jailful of murderers saved from popular excitement. We have converted a just, popular impulse against the prostitution of law before crime into a war between an unorganized people, exposed to acts of blind vengeance against the authorities who killed them to protect the murderers. We have planted in the popular mind a sense of innocent blood crying from the ground, but we have saved our jailful of murderers. We have lost all, but not our jailful of murderers, not having even saved our honor.

The reign of law and order is restored in Cincinnati—that law and order which makes murder the safest trade, and which has made [illegible] administration of law against crimes of society. We have vitiated all practical forms and rules and traps and tricks which makes the trial of the murderer a [illegible] in the judiciary to the one end of having known and proved murderers saved from conviction, and of protecting the trade of criminal lawyers. Is any citizen of Cincinnati content with his salvage except the jailful of murderers and the criminal class, and the trade of criminal lawyers? Is there a decent citizen who feels that these slain citizens should be infamously buried as malefactors, while the jailful of murderers are to be held innocent until after the exhaustion of all means to put witnesses out of the way and to fix juries and of every trick of law they shall have been convicted?

It would be unfortunate the action, the mass of men that marched from the meeting at Music hall to the jail and began an attack upon it were moved by an impulse on the side of justice and law against the reign of crime before which the law had become impotent. Unthinking persons speak of such popular impulses as a crime, forgetting that the right to protect itself against crime is a right of society, and is conferred by it on its agents, and that society does not lose its right because its agents have become impotent. The movement was a terrible mistake, because it was made by a sudden impulse, without organization, or plan, or material. Let the sober judgment of the public keep a just discrimination between the first impulses of the people and the subsequent acts of blind vengeance of a crowd maddened by bloodshed. This affair is wholly different from any such conflict between rioters and authorities in this country and must not be judged by any of them. It was not of workmen against workmen, and against the property of corporations which were trying to get along without them. Nor was it like the riot against the draft. Those were riots against law, justice, public sentiment and property. But this began in an uprising of the people on the side of justice and law and order, where the administration of the law had failed to serve the public safety. The feeling which suddenly took an impulse of movement was felt by all of the law-abiding citizens. Ill judged as it was in acting without organization or deliberation, in a city where the means of supporting the regular authority can so quickly be summoned, the feeling which moved it was a true representative of healthy public sentiment.

Neither experience, observation, nor public discussion has taught the people of Cincinnati that the administration of criminal law is on the side of justice, law and order. They have seen that its chief end is to give immunity to murderers. The Berner verdict is but an incident in this failure of justice. The odious verdict in the Berner trial is not so bad as that imbecile quibbling of the supreme court which twice set aside the verdict of murder in the McHugh case. There were exceptions in the Berner trial as valid as those on which the supreme court set aside two verdicts for McHugh.

The feeling of the mass that stood before the jail Friday night was that which pervaded the whole people. Its action was mistaken, but its feeling was no crime, for it was the public sentiment. Not before in America has there been such an array of people and justice on one side and of police force and military support on the other. Such an array was most deplorable. To fire into such a people for the protection of murderers against justice was a fearful thing to commend. Against a popular mass having no worse impulse than justice against murderers, there was no call to take the desperate hazard of troops, or of the public safety, or of property. Who does not now wish that the militia had not been called into the jail? Who would not gladly exchange the present situation for one in which the men who first attacked the jail had taken out and hanged every man slayer? The rational probability is that they would have stopped with the execution of a few of the most notorious murderers. As the case now stands, justice and law and order are not restored. That abandonment of law which is responsible for the uprising of the criminal class turned this into an opportunity for arson and pillage. The citizen soldiers simply obeyed orders, as they were bound to do under severe penalties. They are not objects of any rational resentment. The sentiment of justice and law and order is now enlisted on the side of the authorities in putting down that which at the beginning was its own representative. Public sentiment, which has long been indignant at the failure of the courts to administer justice and at their degradation to the trade of the criminal lawyer, has now the addition of lasting resentment for the slaughter of innocent citizens to save a jailful of murderers.

Edmunds Very Sore.

Correspondence Chicago Tribune.

There is nothing that has annoyed Senator Edmunds so thoroughly as the comments of the newspapers upon the fact that a United States steamer was employed to bring his wife and daughter from Nassau to Florida. His daughter's health was in a very precarious condition. The weather had been too warm for her at Nassau, and there was only one thing to do, and that was to bring her over to Florida. There is no regular steamer between Nassau and Florida, and the only way to have it brought about was just the very way it was done, because she was not strong enough to come by the way of New York. It is understood that the senator has already made arrangements to pay to the navy department all of the extra expense involved in making the transfer. If this is done, why there is no room for criticism upon the part of anybody. Senator Edmunds is one of the wealthiest men in the senate. He is supposed to have an income ranging from $60,000 to $100,000 a year from his legal practice. He is the special attorney of some of the most wealthy corporations in the United States. There is hardly any case involving questions of any magnitude which goes to the supreme court which does not employ him to prepare an opinion. Many of these opinions do not appear upon the surface of the case, and in a number of the cases he makes no personal appearance in court. Yet he prepares no decision for which he receives a fee of less than $5000 and often the fee is larger. He is said to be very fond of money, and is as careful in his expenditures to-day as if he were obliged to live upon his senatorial salary. Luke Poland of Vermont, who knows him very well, says he does not believe Edmunds would care to be president of the United States, for the simple reason that he would have to give up his great practice and that he is so fond of money that he would prefer his magnificent law practice to the mere honor of being chief executive. Senator Edmunds has one of the most secure positions in the senate. A senator, in speaking of him the other day, said: "I consider Edmunds' political berth the snuggest there is in this country. He holds virtually a life position in the senate, and with his fine law practice wields a power that very few men in the senate even moderately rival. He is cold and severe in his manner, but to those who know him he is at times a delightful companion. He is a sufferer from both dyspepsia and neuralgia, and this has the effect of making him very uncertain in his temper. So that even his friends who like him the most do not always know how they will be treated."

Soon after the publication of the criticisms of the senator for the use of the United States vessel for his family he went into a furious fit of sulks, and for several days he would hardly speak, so great was his rage at the criticisms which were heaped upon his head.

WOMEN AS JURORS.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

As Mr Johnson states, woman is not now eligible to jury duty in Oregon, and, as the law now stands, would not be if she were made a voter. But if the right of suffrage was conferred upon her it is absurd to suppose that nearly one-half of the voters of the state would continue to be exempt. Amendment of the law would follow as an inevitable consequence of the amendment of the constitution. Do the "suffragists" wish to do one half the voting and leave the other half of the voters to pay all the poll taxes and perform all the jury duty? That would be impossible. Capitation taxes and jury duty would necessarily follow. COMMON SENSE.

SOME HISTORICAL RIOTING

The New York Draft Riots Recalled

The calamity at Cincinnati calls to mind the New York draft riots in 1863 which rank as the most famous in our history although rather from political importance than the destruction of life and property involved The demonstration represented the anti war spirit and was undeniably a very dangerous one the outcome showed conclusively that violent resistance would not be tolerated and that the north was determined to conquer the rebellion with conscription if necessary The metropolis made but a small part of the north to be sure but it was thus in a manner the focus of disunion sentiment and success or failure in resisting the draft there meant perhaps more than we can now easily understand

The order for a draft under the new enrollment law was the immediate cause of the outrages but in this case as at Cincinnati the trouble was increased by wild newspaper talk Said the World

One might almost suppose the national legislature to be an elgantic conspiracy plotting a vast scheme of military servitude rather than a council of a great people giving form to its independent determination and organizing its force for the assertion of its freedom A measure which could not have been ventured upon in England even in those dark days when the press gang filled the English ships of war with slaves and dimmed the glory of England's noblest naval heroes—a measure wholly repugnant to the prejudices and habits of our people—was thrust into the statute book as one might say almost by force.

The Journal of Commerce preached doctrine quite as strong the News followed and soon with papers of less note a claim that the law infringed upon state rights and was unconstitutional made the text for discourses which the howling mobs simply reduced to action

An incendiary hand bill appealing to people to rise in defense of their liberties was circulated during the night of July 3 and it is probable that the Fourth would have brought disturbances but for the news of Meade's success at Gettysburg This brought the war men into the street rejoicing and the mob spirit remained quiet The trouble came on Monday July 13 however when drafting began at the corner of Sixth avenue and Forty sixth street in a ward largely peopled by railroad laborers and rough characters There had been 75 or 100 names drawn in the presence of a crowd when a pistol shot made a signal for an attack evidently planned beforehand A shower of brick bats were thrown against the building in which were the officers and the crowd rushed in tore up the papers drove off policemen with showers of stones and set the building on fire The firemen came after some delay but plainly sympathized with the rioters and only began to put out the fire after a number of houses were burned From this time on the story is a confused one of mobs marching about and getting recruits from wharves railroads and manufacturers outrages upon negroes prominent republicans and government officers burning and plundering and fighting with police or troops A number of defenceless negroes were stoned and beaten to death sometimes women and children were shamefully maltreated and many of the poorer houses of the blacks were burned After the attack at the enrolling place the most notable performance on Monday was the sacking and burning of the negro orphan asylum on Fifth avenue a building worth $200 000 The Tribune building was a special object of the fury but it was fortified before any harm was done beyond tearing up the business office and the yelling thousands who surrounded it for several days made no formidable attack

The police force of the city although faithful was unable to cope with the rioters and it happened that the state militia were all in Pennsylvania and that there was no force at hand except a handful of men on Governor's island The mob practically almost had possession of the city for three days until Wednesday night railroads were nearly all stopped to impede the movements of troops and the rioters with more or less fighting and bloodshed constantly committed outrages from one end of the city to the other The disturbance continued through Thursday the fourth day also but by that time some troops had been got in and the crowds were confined in the northeasterly part of the city, where the worst of the offenders lived Then Captain Putnam with a company from the regular army went Thursday evening to where the rioters made a determined stand and routed them after bloody work in shooting those who hurled missiles from housetops He returned three and killed eighteen wounded and twenty four taken prisoners although but two or three of his own men were injured Several regiments of militia entered the town that night and the draft riots were ended after a great though unknown loss of life and the destruction of $2 000 000 worth of property for which the city was held responsible by the owners

A Thirteen Club

A Thirteen Club was organized in New York two years ago to combat the delusion as to the unluckiness of thirteen people sitting down to a table together The thirteen held a business meeting at 13 in the evening of Friday Jan 13 at a house the number of which on the street 4 5 4 adds up thirteen and at 8 13 they sat down to dinner in room 13 To enter the room they passed under a ladder of thirteen rungs the old American flag with thirteen stars was canopied over the chairman's head there were thirteen jets of gas the menu of thirteen courses was printed on a pasteboard coffin lid adorned with thirteen gilt nail heads thirteen bottles of wine decked the table thirteen button pieces lay near the thirteen plates From the latest report of the scribe of the organization the following facts are gleaned

The club is in the third year of flourishing existence and has a membership of twice thirteen times thirteen—338. No 13th of a month has yet passed without at least thirteen members of the club meeting to eat drink and be merry and upon some occasions two or three tables of thirteen have been occupied Thus far no member has died within the year prescribed by superstition as the allotted time of life after dining in a party of thirteen One member died fifteen months after his last dinner in the club an ex-member who never attended a dinner died and one honorary member Peter Cooper who had never dined in the club but was fully in sympathy with it and was only deterred by his age from enjoying its celebrations passed away

Other Thirteen clubs have been founded both in the United States and in Europe since this one has demonstrated that it was not fatal to belong to such an organization There are sixty two honorary members of the parent club headed by president C A Arthur and including a number of the most honored names of the nation There is no cost attached to honorary membership Life membership costs $13 The dues of active members are 13 cents per month and the dinners cost just what they are worth no more. The parent club was legally incorporated September 13 188 and now grants charters to other clubs The fee for a charter is $13 13.

Incidentally the members take care to spill the salt at table wear proudly the motto Morituri te Salutamus have their wine lists printed in the shape of tombstones, and go journeying Fridays when they can

NOTE AND COMMENT

There are at least ten federal office holders on the New Hampshire republican state committee

Read all the advertisements of spring medicines and then take Ayer's Sarsaparilla the best blood purifier

The right of suffrage for the negroes gives the south nearly forty more electoral votes than it would otherwise have Yet they deliberately deny the franchise to the negro and boast of it This evil has got to be remedied or the political powers of this country will go south to stay there The republican party was born in and grew out of a struggle for human rights, but it seems to be drifting away from its cardinal principle The sentimentalists seem to have forgotten its mission I want to see a party with a spirit strong enough and a purpose broad enough to redeem the pledges it has made to give this country a republican form of government—Senator Frye of Maine

The trumpeters of the newspaper copyright law subsided for awhile, but are now at it again It is gratifying that their prospects are no better now than they were before and it is still more gratifying to know that they are likely to get worse instead of better The press of the country, particularly the rural press which would be the greatest sufferer by such a law have been awakened to the threatened outrage and are talking to their representatives in congress in their usual straightforward and vigorous manner Such a gag as is contemplated by this law is against the North American style of doing business and it is pleasant to know that a very decided smack in the face is in store for it —Cincinnati Enquirer

A Remarkable Steam Engine

Popular Science Monthly for February

An English firm have recently constructed a small light compound engine which in point of weight does not pass anything heretofore built This engine is made of steel and phosphor bronze all parts are built as light as possible the rods and shafting and all parts possible being bored out to reduce weight At a speed of only 300 revolutions a minute they indicate over twenty horse power and weigh but 100 pounds all told This engine would give fully thirty horse power actual at a piston speed of 600 feet a minute The size is three and three-quarters high pressure seven and a half low pressure, and five stroke That thirty horse power can be had from a proper utilization of steam and proper distribution of 105 pounds of metal is certainly most astonishing especially so considering that the engine is compound A ship of 2500 tons displacement was almost unknown fifty years ago to day the transatlantic steamer the highest class of the mercantile marine has from 8000 to 13 000 tons displacement and engines of 5000 to 10 000 horse power Several of the transatlantic liners have shown a mean ocean speed of twenty miles an hour, and make the passage in less than seven days

A Practical Use for Finger Rings

Exchange

The recent disaster to the City of Columbus brings to the minds of many the necessity of some sure means of individual identity All are liable to fatal accidents, and those who make long journeys are exposed to diseases that change the looks of an individual so that near friends would not recognize them Many such unfortunates in a condition unable to account for themselves find their way to hospitals. The writer has seen several bodies after the Mill river flood French Catholic church at Holyoke and the Scotia steamer on the Ohio near Wheeling and in each case rings were an easy means of identification The writer has worn for many years a ring, with his name and address in full engraved upon the inner surface. A ring of this kind will also prove a handy article as a means of business identification to every person who travels any distance from home At least such is the writer's experience

Sagacity of the Horse.

J D Caton in American Naturalist

On my farm one Sunday the house was left in charge of one man who sat on the porch reading A mare with a young foal, was grazing in the orchard near by At length he saw the mare coming from a distant part of it at full speed making a loud outcry—a sort of unnatural whinny, but, as he says more like a scream of distress than the natural voice of the horse. She came as near to the man as the fence would allow and then turned back for a few rods and then returned, all the while keeping up the unnatural outcry So soon as he started to follow her she ran back in the direction of a morass or miry place which had been left unguarded, and only stopped on its very brink The man hastened to the spot with all speed, and found the colt mired in the soft mud and water It was already dead.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY April 10

To-morrow being Good Friday will be recognized as a general holiday at the east In consequence stock and market reports will be cut off

Oregon railway stocks have generally ruled quiet and steady Toward the close O R & N is 1 large dealing and declining To day a spirited business was done at slightly lower prices and many lots for a decline to 75 This is not improbable at this time Transcontinental has ruled steady at 20 and a fraction Improvement stocks have suffered one and two points

Clear warm and forcing weather prevailed up to yesterday when several showers fell To-day has been cool and showery Regarding crops in the ground little new can be said Only a continuation of favorable circumstances is to be reported Spring sowing is being pushed forward The eastern section reports cloudy and cooler weather with fair prospect for rains Fruit trees are in blossom being fairly crowded and all conditions are most excellent

Warm weather has caused a further rise in the Snake and Columbia rivers At 8 A M the river stood 6 feet above low water mark at Riparia 5 feet 7 inches at Celilo 11 feet 2 inches at Bonneville and 6 5 at Portland

As a rule the week's produce trade has not been of especial importance There is neither disposition or apparent scope for speculation compelling the simple laws of supply and demand only to obtain The merchandise lines are in more extended trading and we notice a larger movement in dry goods boots and shoes hardware and farm implements The cheapened cost of building material will no doubt prove an incentive to larger operations

WHEAT—A continuation of the pressed condition of this staple with decline following decline until sellers in other markets set down a firm foot and buyers hold off is the principal feature of report Whether sellers can gather sufficient stamina and conditions to affirm their position remains to be seen With wheat selling in the English market at 21 cents per cental below the unsatisfactory price of last year it would seem that the time had arrived to call a halt But this cannot be done if the heavy stocks are not lowered The English farmer feels more keenly this depreciation than does the farmer of other nations for the latter disposed of a goodly portion of his grain to the speculator That the English farmer holds considerable is shown by the steady amount of farmers deliveries from week to week Writers all along held that the depreciation of last winter could not last That it has is only too evident They are now accounting for the position by presenting India and her new wheat growing countries as being far more important than supposed If these countries are to suddenly play such an important part in supplying the world with breadstuffs then a continuation with an altogether probable increase will reduce wheat values to the barest cost of production transportation and a small profit It is enough for us at present to know that wheat values are low and that there is little demand for our surplus For the week all qualities are lower and all markets unsettled The quantity now afloat exceeds that of last week by 40 000 quarters New York values are unsettled while Chicago options which sold at 81c for May on Monday have gathered to 84¼c Cash has shown the same fluctuation San Francisco spot has weakened until $1 43 is bid For next season's delivery a rather improved feeling is manifest than reported on Monday The local market has been in very light trading the few buyers having lowered their bids and holders refusing to concede the position A careful canvass fails to find a shipper actually in the market although a bargain would not be passed The latest sales of valley were at $1 50 with $1 4 ½ now generally bid Shippers have their prospect vessels completed and will not seek new business at present Few millers are buying and they offer less Walla Walla qualities in small trading and quotations nominal at $1 40

FLOUR—Millers have reduced their stocks and the position is less crowded A fair inquiry rules for local purposes and for shipment to the Sound We quote standards $4 75 net The usual quantity is going forward to San Francisco for foreign shipment

MILLSTUFF—An even market has ruled supplies being only ample and first values firm We quote jobbing prices Bran $18 chop $2 feed middlings $25@30 ground barley $25@27 50 oil meal $35

OATS—Dealers have not been pressed for stocks and refuse to bid above 47½@49 for feed qualities An inferior article is not wanted at lower figures Stocks are now only fair and not being materially added to

HAY—Values have ruled quiet at $1 @19 as to quality and customer Offerings are large but are not being forced

POTATOES—An outlet is provided by San Francisco although the margin is small Dealers are slow to buy at 45@50c as to quality

ONIONS—Quite a spurt has been enjoyed by reason of advance below Buyers keep at a safe range bidding 3@3½c and as high as 4½c when jobbing out Offerings are very small

PROVISIONS—The market shows weakness through all for meats and values are more frequently shaded A slight decline is deemed probable We quote Bacon 12@13c shoulders 9@11c country cured hams 13@14c best local do 16@17c Eastern choice do 18c Lard 13½@14c for eastern pails kegs 11@12c small lines of common 13c local in 10 and 5 lb tins 14@14½c

DRIED FRUIT—Generally firm except for the poorer grades We quote Sun dried apples sacks 9@10c Plummer dried in boxes 15@17c eastern in barrels 10 pears or pitless plums machine in boxes 16 sun dried pitless plums 13@15c peaches 13@14 Oregon prunes 12 eastern and German do 8@9½ figs 9 raisins $1 75 @2 with usual advance for fractions

CHEESE—Firm at 18@20 as to grade Local in scant stock

FRUIT—Choice apples very scarce and would bring $2 and upwards Very little is looked for Oranges $4 50@5 50 as to quality Lemons $4 50 @5 00

BUTTER—California roll shows more firmness at 25c Eastern tub offering less freely because of low prices Quote 20@25c Local roll in small supply and irregular as little finds its way into open market Quote 30@35c if fancy

POULTRY—Chickens steady at $5 50@6 50 Ducks $12@13 Geese $9@10 Turkeys have been in request at 15@17c All kinds in fair stock only

EGGS—Gathering firmness at 18 but large supplies are coming in to offset an increased demand

WOOL—Receipts have been more important but are not kept here. A nominal quotation is 15@17c All markets are in irregular business owing to scattered stocks New spring California is bringing good prices

HOPS—The season is virtually at an end, none having been received the past week Other markets present no new feature.

HIDES AND SKINS—A steady market rules with increased movement in skins, We quote dry selected hides 17c green 6½@8c culls off Deerskins summer eastern Oregon 18@20c valley 16@33c winter E 12@15 elk 14@16 Indian dressed buckskin 70@81 black bear per skin $4 60@5 brown $1@3 dark mink 10@50c dark fisher $2@5 50 red fox 60@ 80 mountain fox 10@13c prime dark marten 5@$1 50 muskrats 8c badger 10c raccoon 10@25 land otter $1 50@5 wolf 50@85 wolverine 50c@$1 50 house cat 10 wild cat 10@20 skunk 10 civet 1 coyote 25@50 dark beaver $1@2 50 Tallow common 6@6½c

The Merchandise Market

The market presents little in the way of change As a rule trade is doing and values generally are easily maintained Grain bags are being received in small quantities only It is said there is no small amount of buying in a quiet way and holders are not pushing sales Coffee probably presents the weak front of any of the merchandise lines but only for a small lot has [illegible] the position For the time being a small movement eastward as the New York market is low Codfish rule weak but it is thought will not go lower Hawaiian rice continues in a ant stocks most holders firm for the outside figures China shows less firmness because of the high stocks now here and to arrive There are yet two cargoes say 50 000 mats en route to this port That of the Alden Besse is being discharged Canned goods are broken stocks with increased proportions of assortments Tomatoes are held more firmly Their quest is unabated yet an early canning will find a quantity sold on hand Sugars while reported plentiful and cheap in other markets are in low stock here The demand has been greatly stimulated by the late decline The trans market of the coast are a good deal relatively firmer than are others as stocks not large are under control San Francisco has held no sales of imported stocks as yet Operators appear to be afraid of salmon Less has been done in foreign account than usual some parties who usually contract for stocks ahead having avoided business The trade is certainly in a peculiar condition Late advices from England speak guardedly of the situation but slowly looking for better things It is certain that less will be sent direct to England the coming season This may affect that market which would become depleted but advance lessen its use by the masses Ten days of the new season have passed with next to nothing having been done April promises to witness a more than usual light canning Reports of the run are lacking the few boats out not fairly indicating it Coal oil is very weak and aside from that coming by rail none is being received Dealers hold values up to the old mark Syrups show a certain weakness as regards first values The stock of tin plate entering will arrive is well concentrated in a few hands at a price firm with advancing tendency With the demand to come from fruit canners an advance is looked for Salt continues firm at unchanged prices
